THE BRITISH COLONIST.

Monday Morning, Feb. 24, 1868.

BIRTES.

In this city, on the 23d February, the wife of Mr William Steinberger, of Yule, of a son.

THE arrival at Victoria on the last steamer of a Fenian disorganizer has caused the adoption of precautionary measures of a may be formed for the robbery of the Banks or the destruction of the town. What those measures are we are not now at liberty to state; but without violating confidence we may say that every point at which an attack is likely to be made is guarded, and that should a gang of Ferians be so foolbardy as to attempt an outrage they will meet with certain defeat if not destruction. Since the departure of the steamer it has been given out that the Fenian "general" or "colonel' went in her; but this report is not credited by those who have excellent reasons for believing otherwise. Admiral Hastings has acted with characteristic promptitude in the matter, and we do not anticipate in the face of the precautions adopted any very serious trouble at present.

Horse-TAMING .- We have just returned from inspecting the animal upon which Mr | Colony with the Dominion of Canada. Bartholomew is to operate this afternoon. He is a large horse, standing probably sixteentwo, with a wild and vicious eye, and showing, we think, in many points, traces of Spanish blood. If we are right so much the more fun is in store for the spectators. The men had no end of trouble in getting him to town yesterday, and, if appearances do not belie the creature, Mr. B. will have more in taming him to-day. Two o'clock in the afternoon is the hour fixed for the exhibition, at the Riding School, Yates street. We are requested to state that comfortable seats will be prepared for ladies who feel inclined to be Dog-Poisoning .- On Friday last a valuable English rat terrier bitch, belonging to Mr J. T. Howard, of Esquimalt, was poisoned with bitch was considered the best of her breed in the Colony, and was the mother of a numerous progeny of fine-bred terriers, which have been raised with great care by Mr Howard The act was mean and wanton, the animal being noted for its inoffensiveness; and it is believed that some sneaking rascal, who entertained a gradge against the owner, has revenged himself by destroying a nobler brute than the perpetrator is or ever will be. We hope detection will follow.

SENT FOR-It will be in the recollection of our readers that some five years ago a woman by a further development of our coal and went to San Francisco. The child was and surest method of attaining that end is adopted by a colored family named Stuart, who though poor them selves, have cared for the little waif as tenderly as if she were their own child. For a long time the mother was not heard from, and it was feared she had abandoned her offspring forever, but the last mail brought a letter enclosing money to pay the the passage of the child to San Francisco and to provide for her wants; and the little thing left on the Del Norte to join her mother.

FROM NANAINO .- The steamer Sir James Douglas, Capt. Clarke, returned from Nanalmo on Saturday evening. Among her passengers were Mr Dansmuir, of the Harewood Coal Co., Capt. Marsden, of the telegraph ship Nightingale, and Mr Horne. The fine ship El Dorado is loading at the mines for San Francisco, and the ship Shooting Star is discharging ballast.

DEPARTURE OF THE DEL NORTE,-The steamship Del Norte sailed at balf-past 9 o'clock on Saturday morning, having on board 30 passengers and 85 tons of freight. Twelve of the passengers and 60 tons of the freight were from Puget Sound. She also carried away over $100,000 in gold bars and Much activity is shown at present at the Pembroke gold diggings, near Halifax, large number of speculators being around and claims selling rapidly. One claim was sold last week for $100,000. A year ago this same claim was bought for $2,000.

THE Fraser is open to Harrison River. Above that point it is blocked with ice in OUTSIDE.—The Russian bark Menschikoff, laden with Nanaimo coal for Alaska, is at anchor in the outer harbor.

THE English ship Marmora will be brought round from Esquimalt to-morrow to Sproat & Co's wharf.

THE steamer Fideliter sailed at noon on Saturday for Victoria.

A Few Plain Words.

EDITOR COLONIST :- What strikes one most forcibly in carefully reading the letters of "Victoria" and others, is the air of antiquity which pervades the whole of them. They remind us of a face which country. There has no great political change occurred in England during the last forty years which has not from its inception to its completion, had to encounter exactly the same kind of opposition which "Victoria" and others urge against Confederation. The conservative element in society, that element which deprecates all change, resists all progress, and as a rule denies that in any case change is progress, has from time immemorial met every progressive movement with precisely the same sort of argument, the same kind of reasoning, the same dismal forebodings of probable disappointment, disaster and ruin, as are just now brought forward against the Union of this No matter that again and again experience has shown their arguments to be unsound, their reasoning fallacious, and their predictions unfulfilled, they are equally ready upon the next occasion to tread the same well beaten path, again to repeat the same programme with the utmost gravity, and with an air of the most oracular wisdom. It might be an an interesting and perhaps not unprofitable employment, if "Victoria" would undertake to show us what would be the probable position of England to-day, had she continued to remain as she was previous the repeal of the Corn Laws, were each destined according to that conservative element to plunge England into irretriev. able ruin. We are now told that reciprocity will ruin our farmers. It appears to me that a little enquiry into the proba-ble effects of such a measure will dispel that illusion. At present we have very little to export except coal and lumber. What the farmers want are consumers. consumers can be immediately obtained is tion Act, with a restricted franchise and protection in full play-and yet that by obtaining the whole Pacific coast for a market. The coal-consuming capacity of this coast is now over 300,000 tons a year; of that quantity we raise 31,000 tons. With the trade thrown open there is no reason why within five years that 31,000 should not be 250,000 tons. There is no known coalfield upon this coast of as good quality and as easily obtained as we have upon this Island; and with a market of twenty or even ten thousand consumers at their very door, which reciprocity would quickly give us, if the farmer of Comox or Cowichan could not successfully compete with the farmer of Washington Territory, the fault must be in the man, not in the system. No man who begins farming with no capital but his labor, in either Canada or the Western States, expects to make a fortune in two or three years. If that fortune is ever reached, it is as a rule the work of a lifetime. Speculators and miners alone have any right to expect a fortune in a year or two. A man who desires to have that chance has no right to become a farmer, and yet farming here is a money-making business. I venture to say that there is no farmer upon this Island who has farmed land for the last five years, with that industry found necessary to success in other countries, who does not hold his place to-day at from two to ten thousand dollars. Give us such a market as 1 speak of, and I have no doubt that Confederation with reciprocity will do it, and if there is any farmer on the I land who wishes to sell out he will find a purchasser.

A great deal has been said about the debt of Canada and her inability to do a great many things in consequence of that debt. Let us look at this debt compared with the debts of some other countries. England has a debt of something like $130 per head of population, the United States about $85, Econocyclost $75, and Canada not quite $19. To talk of a nation being orippled and powerless, whose debt is only $19 a head—whose taxation, including interest upon that

The steam r Isabel, having in tow the bark Rosalind, left for Burrard Inlet on Saturday. is, that all the opposition comes from cui is, that all the opposition comes from cultriends. I suppose on the principle that we should be thankful for small mercies, we should be thankful for this very small one. They at least merit our gratitude for imparting the information, for had they withheld it we should never have discovered that fact from anything they have written. These friends of ours tell us to wait and see how the Dominion gets slong, and if in the course of a few years she appears to be healthy and thriving, then we will go ahead and join the family circle. Setting saids the unmanliness of such a proposition, there is something lamily circle. Setting aside the unmailiness of such a proposition, there is something strongly repugnant to the Anglo-Saxon seese of honor and sense of justice in refusing to take any share whatever in the risk, and deliberately proposing to claim a share of the profits; and besides it is anything but agreeable to be told to stand still, when one feels that movement, progression, is a law of our nature. 'Victoria,' as a reason for delay, talls us Osce in there would be no getting nature. Victoria, as a reason for delay, tells us once in, there would be no getting out; that fact seems to me to be its highest recommendation. Nations, like individuals, whenever they feel their position unalterably fixed as far as retrogression is concerned, accept that fect and make the best of it. That the thing is accomplished they accept the position and grapple with the consequences like men. That manly acquiescence in the repeal of the Corn Laws, when they could no longer prevent that repeal, has made the land of England to day more valuable, more productive, and farming more profitable than it ever was during the palmiest days of protection.

VERITAS.

Secular Education in Primary Schools.

EDITOR BRITISH COLONIST,-The progress of sound views on education in England ought to encourage hope that the obvious hostility of the Executive of this Colony to the system of free secular education will not long be tolerated. The insidious movements of a few interested ecclesiastics, who are anxious to have everything in their own hands, will have to give place to the public will. Extensive school systems under denominational direction have long existed in England, and are well adapted to the condition of many of its densely peopled districts. But in many places, as in all districts in this Colony, the population is too sparse to furnish separate schools for each denomination. In many of of those places the clergy of one church have long sought to monopolise the education of the young, and to enforce their own peculiar religious tenets. Against this outcry has been loudly raised, and the people have demanded that, where wished for, secularly conducted schools should be fostered by the Government.

In a speech recently delivered in South

Lancashire the following sensible and highly significant remarks were made by Mr Gladstone, Ex-Chancellor of the Exchequer:

" I think I am bound to say that there is another change that ought to be made in the system of terching as it now prevails. Schoo's be proscribed. (Hear, bear.) Undoubtedly, if you ask me, I prefer a school where religion is taught to one where it is not taught. But if there be benevolent individuals who are disposed to give or assist in giving to their own families or the families of others the advantage. own families or the families of others the advantages, not only of the positive knowledge of a school, but the moral habits of a well-conducted school, I do not think it a sufficient reason for withholding public aid from the school and placing it under a ban, that religious instruction does not form part of the system of that school. (Hear, hear) Bocause, after all, it is to be recollected that the very persons who may wish to found a school simply secular in its character, may limit the sphere of that school, not out of disrespect to religion, not from undervaluing its inestimable blessings, but because they feel afraid of able blessings, but because they feel afraid of able blessings, but because they feel afraid of its becoming a source of discord in the school. I think it better to leave it to the pastors and parents. (Hear, hear.) Whether we adopt that opinion or not, it is fair to keep that possibility in mind, and I own it would not be altogether equitable and fair—on the contrary it would be decidedly inequitable and unfair - if we were to say that because a school conveys secular knowledge only, therefore it is to be regarded as unworthy of public assistance and countenance. (Cheers.)'

Coming events cast their shadows before them. Let the friends of our free-school system take heart and persevere. Nanaimo, February 21, 1868.

Paris, January 3—The rumour that several of the leading foreign representatives were to avoid the New Year reception at the Tuileries was in a manner confirmed. M de Golfz, the Pressian Envoy, was received on the 31st of December and on New Year was not of the city. the 31st of December and on New Year was out of the city. Himself and son were taken to Court in the Imperial carriage, and he made a very friendly and pacific speech, to which the Emperor answered in the same spirit. His Majesty dwelt with satisfaction upon the fact that the relations between himself and the King of Prussia were of the most friendly nature, but I notice that a siicht discrepancy exists between the the following facts and the Imperial discourse—namely, that Prussia is increasing her armament with almost frerzied haste, and that France is, according to the semi official pressiber, actively rifling all her cannon; that she is transforming the defences of all her strong, holds and maritime forts to resist the new appliances of war; that Chassepot r fles are being manufactured with all the haste possible and that the credit of six millions accorded to 1867 for the remodelling of arms and the like is being fast exhausted.

King Thedore's Pedigree.

The following is King Theodore's pedigree, according to his own account : PROCLAMATION.

In the name of the Father, and of the Son and of the Holy Ghost, one God!

The King of Kings, Theodore, created by the Trinity its servant, installed by it and made Prince, to his children given to him by God, and to all the Franks (Europeans.)

By your God, and the God of your friends, Theodore, who appeared to Moses on Mount Sinal and in the Red Sea; who appeared to Joshua at Jerioho; who, through his servant Sammel, annointed Saul when he was seeking the asses that were lost; who, when Saul turned from his Creator, commanded Samuel to annoint David.

Solomon was King after David, according to the word of the prophet and of his father. notwithstanding that Adonias (Adoniah) against the will of God, was proclaimed King by the people, and obtained favor in their sight. Solomon, by the Queen of Azyed (the southest), begat Menitek, who became King of Ethiopia. From Menitek down to the dynasty of the Gallas, all the Kings were stage players (aznari), who sought from God neither wisdom nor strength but with His help the means of sought from God neither wisdom nor strength, but, with His help, the means of strength, but, with His help, the means of raising up the Empire where found, when God chose me, His servant, to be King.

My countrymen, 'the river is dried up, its bed is empty,'' and they insulted me because my mother is poor, and called me the son of a beggar. But the Turks knew the greatness of my father, who made them his tributaties as far as the frontiers of Egypt, and to the gates of their cities. My father and my mother descended from David and from Solomon, and they are also of the seed of Abraham, the servant of God.

Now those who insulted me with the name of a beggar's son are themselves beggars, and beg for their daily bread. Without God's will, neither wisdom nor power can save from ruin. Nevertheless, as God said unto Adam, 'In the sweat of thy face thou shalt eat bread," it is necessary not to fall into slothfolness. But it is needless for me to give you the advice; for, as the proverb says, 'Speak not of wisdom to the sage, neither cut the food of a lion.'

There is nothing powerful in the world. Many have had mortars and cannon in abundance, and nevertheless have succombed.

Many have had mortars and cannon in abundance, and nevertheless have succombed. Napoleon had myriads of them, yet he died conquered, after having subjugated the Franks. Nicholas, Emperor of the Muscovites, possessed them in abundance, and he was vanqui.hed by the French, the English and the lurks, and died without having accomplished the desire of his heart.

omplished the desire of his heart.

If in your countries you meet with any partisums of the brigand Negusye, who shall say, like the traitors of this country, that Ethicpi is governed by the son of a beggar, wager them a field covered with gold that I, the present Emperor, am on the threne of my lather, Abraham and Day d, and bring them here to be confuored with me.

Whether Senator Wilson in high places. Whether Senator Wilson has become discouraged or disgusted I know not, but he seems to have entirely relinquished his Christian efforts of a year ago, to reform his Congressional brethren through the agoncy of his temperance society. One gentleman, who was an exemplary member of the Congressional Temperance Society a year ago, associated and applied the heardyear ago, astonished and appalled the boarders at Willard's, one morning last week, by entering the breakfust-room in his nightshirt, at about 10 a m; another was taken home in a handcart, not many Sundays since; while still another, over whose conversion all the ladies were, a year ago, saturating their pocket-handkerchiefs, and 'carrying on' in a more melo-dramatic way than anything re-corded of the Brick Lane Branch of the Ebenezer Temperance Society, of which the elder Mr Weller's 'second wentur' was such elder Mr Weller's 'second wentur' was such a bright and shining light—that gentleman (need I say he is a distinguished Senator from the West ?) has been, for a week or more, contined to his room and a diet of pickled cabbage to help him over a prolonged carouse, terminating in the deliriums. Nor is this all. Would that it were. It is not even the worst.

A particular case (I repeat that I use no names) has become so serious of late that an eminent Bishop of the Methodist Church has been sent for, and has come all the way from Philadelphia to see what he can do in the way of reforming the eminent since. If the Government wished to stamp out the little life and energy left in our people it could not adopt a more effectual method of doing so than to fest confidence in the country by investing their time, their labor or their means in the opening up of its latent resources. The duty of every Gov. ernment is to foster, encourage and protect the laudable efforts of its en terprising citizens instead of placing a dragehain of restrictions and provisces upon their movements and bearing them down with conditions and delays. Some time ago a valuable seam of copper was laid bare at Howe's Sound on the mainland and a company formed to prospect it. At the end of several months' work sufficient was known to justify the formation of a Joint Stock Company to work the soam; but when the promoters of the scheme applied to the Government for the right to pre-empt or lease the ground through which the seam runs, they were met with a string of objections and conditions that sent a "thrill of mortification" through the company and well nigh caused its dissolution. Correspondence followed, and after negotiations which extended over a period of three months, the company have at last been forced to accept terms of a most unfavorable and unsatisfactory character. The reason assigned by Government for imposing restrictions and conditions upon the company is a want of faith in the pecuniary ability of the shareholders to open the mine. What right has the Government to assume any such state of things? What right has it to insist upon the acceptance of unfavorable terms when it knows, or ought to know, that the success of the enterprise depends mainly upon the attraction of capital from abroad, which can only be attracted where the terms of the lease are favorable. The poorer the company the greater claim it has upon the assistance of a paternal Government; and the assertion that because shareholders are poor they ought not to receive the same encouragement as an organ zation of rich shareholders, is so palpably absurd as to require no argument to upset it. The policy the Government should have pursued was to grant the most liberal concessions to the Copper Company; to have encouraged them in every way, and to have held out every inducement for them to proceed with the work; and should the com with the work; and should the com saparsila. As the matter is left, the company, wearied with negotiations which brought such miserable results, has at last been reluctantly compelled, "by a bare majority" to accept terms of a character so disadvantageous that it is feared little if any of the stock will be disposed of elsewhere. Should this fear prove well grounded, the exertions of a company of enterprising will be defeated, and what under other circumstances might have proved a valuable addition to the productive wealth of the country, remain undeveloped for an indefinite

It is also understood that France, though consulted, has declined for the present to participate.

London, Feb. 17-In the House of Commons, Earl Mayo, Chief Secretary for Ireand, stated that the Government is preparing an Irish Reform Bill. It would be ready to present before the House by March. He said other measures with regard to Ireland would be brought forward March 2d.

Sir Charles Bright called attention to the scheme of placing the telegraph wires under the control of the Government, and asked if the Ministry proposed to take action to that end. Hunt (Under-Secretary) replied that it was the intention of the Government to purchase the lines of telegraph in Great Britain and promised that the plan of effecting that change would be submitted to the House within a week. A motion was made for a second reading of the bill for the suspension of the habens corpus. Mr Ferrel, member for Andover, said he thought the motive proved that the administration of affairs in Ireland greatly needed reform. Mr Marston, member fo Waterford, said the bill was an outrage upon Catholics, shut out as they were from a right ful share in the Government.

Earl Mayo laid an explanation with regard to the arrest of George Francis Train before

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS.-Unsolicited Testimony,—Mr. Rippon, Hairdresser of Exeter, in a letter dated July 1st, 1862. Writes:
"My wife had been a great sufferer for several years from bed legs. After trying many different applications for months together to no purpose, a strongly recommended your medicament and I do assure you we feel most thankful to he and yourself for the perfect cure they have effected. My wife is now able to take a walk of four or five miles with comfort. You may publish this etter, and I only hope it may be the means inducing other sufferers to use your admirable remedies, which have proved a blessing indeed to us." Such testimonials are indisputable."

those numerous medicines advertised in the public papers as able to cure every possible disease, as they are applicable only to but a very few complaints. The most stringent laws exist in France with regard to the sale o
